THE BOOK

THE STORY SO FAR

In 2011, the city had Gaines Street all ripped up in what seemed like the longest road project of all time. Traffic got rerouted, driveways got blocked, and businesses suffered. Over beers, a plan formed, a Festival began to take shape.

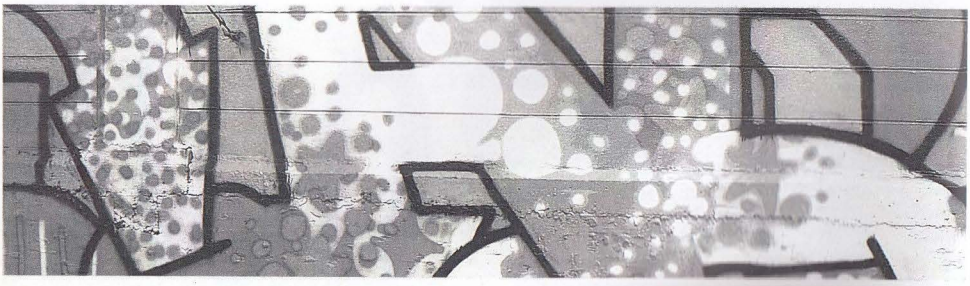
Four years later and the streets are smooth. The new palms mix with the old oaks and the dust has settled. What was once a way to help save Gaines in lean times now fills sidewalks and businesses to overflowing with celebration.

At Gaines Street Fest, every band gets to rock in the spotlight. From the big groups that bring loyal crowds to performers who are someone's favorite secret, they're all waiting for you to discover them. One of the hardest things about GSF is just trying to decide who to see next. To help you out, every one is listed in this book with a photo and a self-description. (GSF organizers make no guarantees that they actually sound the way they think they do, though.) Is this the year you spend a little time in every venue?

But to just talk about the music barely scratches the surface. This year, we've piled on the attractions. All around you, Tallahassee came to play and sell and enjoy. Artwork, clothing, jewelry, tattoos, calendars, pipes, vape supplies, art supplies, skateboards? We got that. Pizza, tacos, hot dogs, cookies, jerk chicken, veggie mac'n'cheese, crepes, sandwiches? We got that. Bounce house, animals to check out, face painters, games of chance, pooch smooches? We got that. Beer and other libations? You know we got that.

Gaines Street Fest is all about you and me and the rest of this town, coming together to show off and get down. Standing in front of St. Mike's last year after dark, with music playing all around me and painters working on walls and the smell of delicious food floating in the fall air, with my neighbors laughing and moving and dancing in parking lots, I felt like I could see the best of Tallahassee. I love this city.

- Unity Song Inc, 2014



A FEW WORDS FROM THE ORGANIZERS

What once started as a way to reach out to the businesses on Gaines Street during a time of need has morphed into a celebration of its success! We look forward to throwing y'all a killer good time! We are passionate about Gaines Street because we grew up here - the guy who sold my son his first skate board is the same guy who sold me mine when I was a kid. There is history on this street, and our music festival was created to pay it back to the people who help shape so many minds in a positive way. Just like SAIL High School is there to embrace and show no judgment towards students so is the nature of Gaines Street. The shop owners, artists, and the genuine individuality of the street serve a purpose to those who are growing up undecided of who they are or if they belong. We cannot stress enough to the community how important it is to support an art district like this. I would like to quote Dan, the owner of All Saints Café, who said so eloquently, "I believe the children are our future."

So now for the thank yous... I want to thank my son Connor for his genuine good nature and reminding me to slow down, Hank Thigpen for not just telling me how to create a music festival but also rolling up his sleeves and working side by side with me this year, all the bands who without them we would never even have a festival, the shop owners who put up with my constants "hey could you...s", everyone working sound at the festival if you see them give em a high five it really is a thankless task, everyone working or volunteering the day of the festival you all are amazing, Jeremy Matlow for always being so generous, Holly Galotti who has been so supportive and outgoing, Brad Fannon because he is a solid dude who never questions our crazy ideas, just offers support, Bradley Ellison for letting me see most of him naked, Jason Cline for his constant honesty and proof that good people can and will survive even if dealt a bad hand, Tans Mongolian tofu for understanding me better than anyone, Taylor Bishop for cracking me up daily and providing aquatic therapy, Spike Mott for walking me off of multiple mental cliffs at any hour of the day, the love of my life...Sweet Pea Café without you I wouldn't be the woman I am today, Jen Miller for teaching me to stand up for myself and be direct to the people who try to bring me down, Lio Nazario for giving me so much confidence, and I'm running out of space and I know I'll miss someone but shout outs to Joanna Winters, Matt Burke, Blake Burnette, Adam Taylor, Morgan Harris, Jordan Culver, the Wynns, Jacob Sanford, Jordan Obi and to YOU the fest goer! You are the reason for the season and we love you!

- Taylor Biro

What else is there to say? Taylor thanked everyone else, so I will thank her. Without Taylor Biro, there would be no Gaines Street Fest. She herds the cats and puts out the fires, and if you see her you should buy her a beer. Here's to another great year in Tallahassee and on Gaines Street, long may it live!
